

FECILETTES.

Chew Jack on's Best Sweet Navy Tobacco. The nights are cool enough for fires and blankets.

Yesterday's western-bound train was about three hours behind at this place, and did not arrive here till after the train from the west was in. The delay was caused by the breaking of an eccentric on the engine, and other delay from hot boxes.

The following is the residence of the Supreme Judges—those who have arrived—during their stay in the city: Chief Justice Deaderick, at Mrs. Gammons, corner Main and Gay streets; Judges Freeman and Cooper, at the Lamar House; Judge McFarland, at Mr. Chas. W. DePue's, on Clinch street. Attorney General Lea is at the Lamar House.

Personal.

Rev. R. J. Cooke, of the First, and Rev. J. M. Durham, of the Second M. E. Church, went out on the Maryville train yesterday evening to attend the District Conference at New Salem Church on the Little River Circuit, south of the river.

Hon. W. F. Cooper, of the Supreme Bench, arrived Monday night from Nashville, and took his place in the court yesterday.

Capt. Mack Parker, of the E. T. V. & G. Railroad, returned yesterday from running a few trips as conductor for Capt. Taylor, on the Buncombe line.

Mr. Joe Fain, of Dandridge, who came to the city a few days since to take a position as salesman in the house of McNally & George, has been quite sick at the boarding house of Mrs. Foust, but is now recovering, and will be out in a few days, no doubt.

Old men's easy Hand-made Shoes, at Hall's, cheap.

Found Dead Shot Through the Head.

Last Saturday evening, as we are informed, a son of Mr. Jas. Dunlap, who lives near Miser's Station, Blount county, about 13 years of age, took his gun and went out squirrel hunting. He did not return that night, and much uneasiness and anxiety was felt about him. Sunday morning, however, he was found dead in the woods, with a hole shot in the back of his head. As he was entirely alone, no one could tell how it had happened, but it seemed quite probable, from all the surrounding circumstances, that he had been throwing a rock and at the same time holding his gun in his left hand, and it was accidentally discharged with the tragic results detailed above. It was a sad affair and cast a gloom over the neighborhood.

THE COURTS.

Supreme Court.

The Supreme Court for the Eastern Division of Tennessee assembled in the Supreme Court room on Main street yesterday morning, there being present Hon. Chief Justice Jas. G. Deaderick and Associate Justices R. McFarland, W. F. Cooper and T. J. Freeman. Hon. Peter Turney was absent.

The docket was taken up and a number of causes heard, and court adjourned till this morning.

United States Circuit Court.

The United States Circuit Court re-assembled yesterday morning, Hon. John Baxter presiding:

The United States vs. Henry Clay Harmon, guilty on second and third counts, forgery and withholding pensions, forfeited.

The United States vs. Wm. Heard, motion for new trial, continued till January next.

C. M. Barrett vs. John Parmelee's heirs, action of ejectment; dismissed. Catherine M. Barrett vs. John Barnes, ejectment; dismissed.

Sams vs. Smith Coppinger, Amos Griffith and Jeremiah Jones, dismissed.

The United States vs. Crawford W. Hall; continued by consent.

Horace R. Allen et al. vs. Gibson & Craig; death of Craig suggested. Union National Bank of Nashville vs. Benj. Bentley; continued by consent.

The United States vs. Peter A. Wilkinson et al.; debt; judgment ordered upon former verdict.

The United States vs. Adam Harr et al.; debt; continued by consent.

The United States vs. James Waterhouse, violating the revenue law; fined $100, imprisoned 1 month in Loudon county.

The United States vs. John Ley, violating the revenue law; fined $100, imprisoned 1 month in Anderson county.

J. H. Walker and F. Auvin were discharged.

The civil docket will be taken up at the meeting of the court this morning.

Court adjourned till 9 o'clock this morning.

Criminal Court.

Criminal Court met again yesterday morning, Hon. M. L. Hall presiding, and the following proceedings were had:

The State vs. Andrew McFarland, murder; jury again repletted.

The State vs. E. I. Augustus, gambling; 5 cases; nol. pros. on costs.

The State vs. Elray Beaman, carrying weapons; nol. pros.

Court adjourned till 9 o'clock this morning.

Hall's is the cheapest store in the city.

Harmon Ships the Federal Court.

Henry Clay Harmon, of Compensation, Claiborne county, has been on trial in the Federal Court for a day or two past. He was a Claim Agent, and was charged with forgery, with holding pensions, etc. His crime was forging a name and procuring the payment on a pension claim of something over $500, for an old lady in his neighborhood. The trial consumed Monday and up to noon yesterday, when the case was given to the jury, under the charge of the Court.

At the reassembling of the court, at 2 o'clock, the jury came in ready to return their verdict of guilty, but the prisoner, Harmon, who was on bond, was no where to be found. He had skipped the town in anticipation of the verdict, and up to the latest information was not heard from. The case against him was an aggravated one and he would no doubt have been sent up for several years.

Appeal to the Odd Fellows.

The Odd Fellows have made the following appeal:

MURFREESBORO, TENN., Sept. 8. To the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, Greeting:

The Odd Fellows Special Relief Committee of Memphis are again forced to the necessity of appealing to the brotherhood at large for material aid. All of the available funds of the five lodges and two Equipments have been expended in sending many of their brethren and families to places of safety, and in nursing and providing for the sick and burying the dead. Business is suspended, wages stopped, and sickness and death making havoc in their midst. This appeal is made with greatest reluctance in view of the generous outpouring of substantial aid which met similar appeals in 1878, but with sickness and distress upon every hand, with the want of resources and cries for help coming up continually, their treasury exhausted, and the prospect of a continuance of the dreaded scourge of the yellow fever for a period of at least two months to come, their only resource is in an appeal for help from our more fortunate brethren who are spared such a dire calamity as now scourges their stricken city. All contributions should be sent to Marcus Jones, Grand Patriarch of the State and President of the Special Relief Committee, I. O. O. F., Memphis, Tenn.

E. G. BUDD, Grand Master.

Maryville College.

A note from President Bartlett, of this institution, says:

"Five young men came to this town in 1819 to be instructed by Dr. A. Anderson. This was laid the foundation of Maryville College. Since that time no collegiate year has opened with so large a number as the present, with the prospect of many more joining the institution."

We rejoice at the prosperity of Maryville College. It has already accomplished a great deal for our section and is a growing institution. It has an excellent faculty and its course of instruction is thorough. President Bartlett, to whose ability and energy the institution is so largely indebted for its success, deserves the commendation of all good men and women, without regard to sect, party or color. It is worthy of the increased patronage which we are glad to see it is receiving.

Death of a Notable Man.

John S. Gaines, an old and highly respected citizen of East Tennessee, died at his residence on Reedy Creek, Sullivan county, on Sunday night, August 31st, 1879, after a brief illness. He was born February 28, 1794, in Patrick county, Virginia, being at the time of his death in his 85th year.

He was married at the place where he died, to Letitia Dalton Moore, about 65 years ago. His venerable wife, who still survives him, and is now in her 83d year, was the younger of two daughters, (all the children he had) of Samuel Moore, a distinguished soldier of the Revolution, and one of the early settlers of Sullivan county from North Carolina. Mr. Moore married a sister of Gen. E. P. Gaines, whose history is familiar to the country, and whose name and fame are especially cherished by East Tennesseans.

John S. Gaines was a man of no one perhaps who esteemed him more highly for his personal worth, and his distinction as a soldier and civilian, than the deceased. Having associated with him in his early manhood both as a soldier and in the private walks of life, he was fully prepared to appreciate the high sense of moral obligation and true nobility, which marked the life and character of General Gaines.

Mr. Gaines was among the few surviving soldiers of the war of 1812; and although he was quite a young volunteer, he gained considerable distinction as a soldier, having been complimented on several occasions by his superior officers. But it was in private life where his character was fully developed and his virtues gained prominence. As a husband and father he was remarkably kind and indulgent, ever evincing a spirit of forbearance and consideration, maintaining that reason should be the director of man's will. He seems to have embraced the sentiment so well expressed by one of his favorite poets:

"I love, the spring of emotion, rules the soul, Reason's comparing balance rules the whole; That sees immediate good by present cause; Reason the future and the consequence."

Intelligent, quick and discerning, sincere and obliging, he exercised a magnetic influence upon those with whom he came in contact. Few men perhaps could be found who held in higher estimation the civilities of life, being himself the exemplification of courteousness. Fond of his friends and of society, he always made himself a welcome guest, never failing to win the respect, confidence and affectionate regard of every heart.

His home, for many years one of affluence, will long be remembered as the most pleasant retreat, not only for his friends and kindred, but for the weary passer-by, stranger though he may have been, for his hospitality knew no bounds.

His remains lie beneath the hallowed sod of the family burying ground, near the old homestead, where they were deposited on Tuesday last, attended by a large assemblage of kindred friends and sorrowing neighbors who honor and esteem his memory.

From Greenville.

GREENVILLE, Sept. 8, 1879.

MR. EDITOR: This evening at 7:30 p. m. found the M. E. Church filled to its fullest capacity with the elite of the city, to witness a concert given by the Sabbath School of the Church.

The exercises consisted principally of music, select readings and recitations by the younger members of the school, and the manner in which the participants acquitted themselves certainly reflected great credit on the management.

At the close of what many supposed to be the final piece, the pastor announced that the exercises would close with the next piece, when to the great satisfaction of a host of gossipers, and to the apparent surprise of many Mr. E. H. Hacker, Deputy Revenue Collector, and Miss Jessie Britton, daughter of our most excellent Circuit Court Clerk, came forward and were united in marriage by Rev. J. J. Manker. We adopt the language of the poet, and say: "Together may they sweetly live" forever.

Miss Lizzie Mason, daughter of J. A. Mason, died about 9 p. m., Sunday, of consumption. Miss Lizzie was esteemed and loved by all. She will be missed, and her death mourned not only by the family alone, but by the community in general.

En Route to Frankfort.

A note to the CHRONICLE from our young friend, J. W. Brown, of Rogersville, written at the Astor House, Louisville, Ky., Sept. 7th, which was last Sunday, says:

"I reached this place—the city of industrial and generous art—with my prisoner, Joe, Ferrill, yesterday, at 8:30 o'clock, and will remain here till Monday, when I will take him to Frankfort."

Mr. Brown, it will be remembered, was the capturer of Ferrill, near Rogersville, last week, as was stated by us, and Ferrill was an escaped convict under sentence for 99 years. He has no doubt reached his destination, landed his prisoner safe and started on his return ere this.

Fred. M. R. Returns to Memphis.

Fred. M. R., the Memphian, who had a case of the yellow fever at the home of Gid. Luttrell, near McMillan's station, has recovered entirely, and passed through on yesterday's train, with his family, returning to Memphis.

We understand he will leave his family in the country outside of Memphis, but he will go back to his business. There were no symptoms of fever in any of the family of Mr. Luttrell.

The Products of Indigestion.

Inability of the stomach to act upon the food is productive of serious and speedy mischief to the entire bodily economy. The circulation languishes and grows poor; feanness, pallor, and a loss of muscular and organic power supervene; we are then the victims of the diseases connected with and dependent upon indigestion, such as anæmia and the secretion of bile, grow irregular, and the organs whose business it is to discharge those functions become badly disordered.

This disastrous state of things is more readily and thoroughly remedied with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters than any known medicinal agent. The stomach being invigorated, the life giving principles of the blood are increased, the system properly nourished, leanness and debility overcome, and the bowels and liver thoroughly and promptly regulated.
